My review is of the standard paperback version of this book. As I have purchased and reviewed the Premium version of other of this publishers books, I'm certain that the paper in the spiral-bound version of the book is an improvement over what the paperback. This is an excellent devotional guide which can be accomplished in 30 days (as the writer suggests) or at your own speed if you prefer to save out the time you spend in devotional study. The format of the book alternates between one day of suggested tasks and prayers to the next day of coloring. That amounts to fifteen days each of both formats. Each day is prefaced with cited verse of Scripture and the task/coloring relates back to that verse. Each day has a page of verse and then the author shares her personal thoughts and experiences which relate to the verse. Then, you either follow the tasks or color the design depending on which day it is. I found the course of study to be of immense personal use for me. It seemed as if the entire book had been geared towards the issues I have been facing. The stories that the author tells are heartfelt and the suggested tasks are ones that, while I found a bit emotionally challenging, were ultimate rewarding for me. The coloring was just a small part of this book and the designs are geared to and highlight the Bible verse. Each of the drawings can be accomplished in a day. For coloring purposes, the paper in this book is white, thin, slightly rough and non-perforated. Alcohol and water-based markers bleed through. Gel pens and India ink leave shadows of color on the back of the back. Colored pencils work well (both oil and wax based) but hard lead pencils can leave dents. I use a blotter page under the page I am working on (both coloring and using a pen for writing) to keep ink and dents from marring the pages below.

I was eagerly anticipating the arrival of this book. When it arrived though I was disappointed. As the book is marketed as a coloring book devotional I was expecting more pages for coloring. There were only a few pages for coloring. If it was advertised as a devotional with a few coloring pages I don't think I would have been as disappointed. I just thought I was ordering something with more coloring as it was supposed to be a "coloring book" devotional.

I love this 30 day devotional (it actually is laid out for 32 days)! It has about 17 illustrations you can color that are varied and each one is a nice design. The designs are just complex enough to take a few minutes to color, but not eat up an hour. Each design relates to the devotional on the previous page, so you can stay focused on the devotion. I like that the coloring pages are separate from the devotion because you can give your coloring page to someone and not lose your devotion, if you choose to share. I like writing an encouraging note on the coloring pages and then giving that page to someone. For the pages I choose to keep to myself, I like to write a prayer on the coloring page. The days without a coloring page provide nice lines to write your devotional responses and prayers. In the very back they have inserted lined pages for notes. Each day has a page with the verse for the devotional and you can add illustrations of your own if you desire on this page (the devotion is on the back of this page). I use Sharpies to color most often and have noticed they bleed through just a bit. Overall, I would say this devotional was thought about a great deal based on the way it is laid out and the way they anticipated people would use it. I really enjoy using it and will be sad when it is finished.

This is a wonderful devotional. The drawings are beautiful and the whole thing is very inspiring! I'm going to have to share this with a few friends! I think that anyone who is looking for some clarity would greatly enjoy using this devotional/coloring book!

So beautifully written. I look forward to each daily devotional

I bought two books - one for me and one for my 13 year old daughter - to use as devotional together. We loved that we could be creative in our own way on the coloring pages. The devotionals are inspiring. Jordan did a great job writing them. They are short enough that you can get through them quickly, yet they are very thought provoking. Well worth purchasing!

This is truly an awesome book. I really did not expect such rich content. I ordered this as a gift for my wife who enjoys her quiet time every morning. But after reading through it for myself, it made me realize how simple spending time with God can be and how much we can complicate things on our own. I especially love the slots for prayers, this way I'll be able to look back on all the answered prayers God has granted. Really Cool and Great Gift.

Love this devotional book! I know some people complained that it wasn't all coloring pages-and yes that is correct, but I have to admit I do not mind because it has a mix of coloring and writing response. I like that they do both. So if you like to write and color-This would work perfectly. I like love devotionals-they are very encouraging and scripture base. Highly recommend!
